WHEREAS, An estimated 11.9 percent of Californians, or 3.9 million adults and children, have been diagnosed with asthma; and

WHEREAS, Asthma disproportionately affects children and young adults and, in California, its prevalence is highest among children who are 12 to 17 years of age; and

WHEREAS, Women are affected with asthma at much higher rates than men, African-Americans in California are three times more likely than Caucasians to be hospitalized due to asthma, and rates of hospitalization due to asthma among Hispanic and Asian children in California have been increasing; and

WHEREAS, The effects of asthma include missed school and work days, disruption of sleep and daily activities, emergency medical visits for asthma exacerbation, and even death; and

WHEREAS, The direct and indirect economic impact of asthma was estimated to cost California $1.27 billion in 1998, hospitalizations represented the largest direct medical expense related to asthma in 2000, and the average cost per hospitalization was $13,000; and
